Thousands of years ago, man had to walk to go from one place to another. Later, he used animals. He travelled on the back of the animals. He also used animals to pull carriages and carts.

After a passage of time, the era of automobiles came.

Means of transport, that could move at fast speed were invented.

FACTUM

In many countries, people use bicycles instead of cars and bikes. It is because bicycle do not pollute air. Walking and cycling are good exercises too.

Teacher's Tip

Follow the traffic rules when you are walking in a rushy place.

Modern Means of Transport

Today we have many means of transport. To travel a short distance, we can use bicycles, man-pulled rickshaws, auto-rickshaws, scooters, bikes, cars and buses.

When we have to travel a long distance, we use trains. Some buses too are used to cover long distances.

FACTUM

Many years ago, the only way to travel very long distances was by a ship or a horse.

For very long distances, say from one country to another, we can travel by aeroplane.

Ships are also used to travel from one country to another. But ships take days and months while the aeroplane takes hours to cover distances.

Most villages have few means of transport. People have to walk long distances. Many people use bullock-carts and tongas. People use tractors too for travelling. Some villages have buses.

Location of a place and weather also affect our choice for the means of transport.

In deserts, camels are used for transport.

Elephants are used in thick forests.

Mules and ponies are used in hilly places for transport.

If you want to go somewhere very very far like the moon, which means of transport you have to choose ?

Yes, It is a r _ _ k _ t!
