Aruna Asaf Ali - The Freedom Fighter

Warm Up

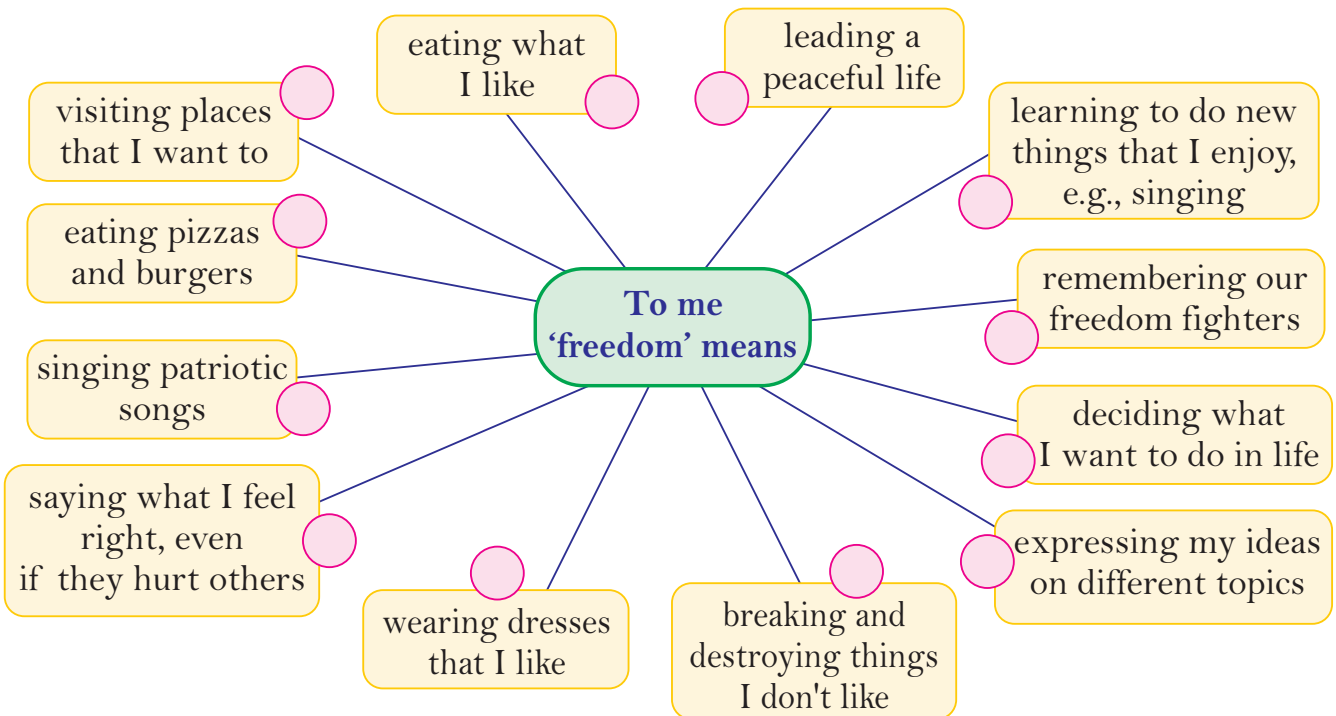

A. Look at the pictures of some great women freedom fighters of India. Identify them and write their names from the box.

Begum Hazrat Mahal Sarojini Naidu Rani Lakshmibai Sucheta Kripalani

B. Look at the various options and put a tick (✓) on which you agree with and put a cross (X) which you don't agree on the topic, 'What Freedom means to Me'.

Read and Enjoy

The national flag went up fluttering in the air. All looked up and saluted, which was followed by the singing of the national anthem ‘Jana - Gana - Mana ...’

A small group of children sang a few patriotic songs and Tara’s grandmother gave a short speech about India’s freedom struggle. All the while Tara stood beside her grandmother. All the people who had gathered, keenly listened to what the 90-year-old freedom fighter said.

Their hearts were full of pride as they looked at the flag. Soon, sweets were distributed. On the occasion of 15th August, the Independence Day, Tara’s grandmother had been invited to hoist the national flag near the main gate of the colony. She was the seniormost resident of the colony and had been a freedom fighter as a young girl. Tara often listened to her detailed descriptions of the freedom struggle of India.

On the way back, Tara said, “Grandma, you spoke very well. But tell me about the leader who inspired you the most in those days.” Grandmother smiled, “Aruna Asaf Ali inspired me the most.” Tara further asked, “Please tell me about her.” They had reached home by then. As they sat comfortably on the sofa, grandmother said, “Aruna Asaf Ali was born on 16th July, 1908 at Kalka in Punjab in British India as Aruna Ganguly in a Bengali Brahmo family. She studied at Lahore and then at Nainital. She worked as a teacher in Calcutta (now Kolkata). She later married Asaf Ali, a leader of the Congress Party, in 1928.

Tara listened to her grandmother and further asked, “Grandma, how was she involved in the freedom struggle ?” Her grandmother smiled, “Let me tell you dear. She became an active member of the Congress Party after marrying Asaf Ali. She took part in the Salt Satyagraha and the Quit India Movement. She is remembered for hoisting the Indian National Congress flag in Bombay (now Mumbai) in 1942 during the Quit India Movement.” Tara looked curious, “Was she also arrested like other freedom fighters during the independence struggle?” “Oh yes, once she was also sent to Tihar Jail,” said grandmother. Tara nodded, “She was a very brave lady, grandma.”

“Aruna Asaf Ali was called the Heroine of the 1942 movement for her bravery and courage with which she faced with danger. In her later years, she was called ‘The Grand Old Lady of the Independence Movement’. I simply admired her.”

Padma Vibhushan : a civilian award (given to one for their outstanding work in some field of life)

Bharat Ratna : the highest civilian award of India

“She was awarded the International Lenin Peace Prize in 1964 and the Jawaharlal Nehru Award for International Understanding in 1991. She received the Padma Vibhushan in 1992. The Indian government also awarded her the highest civilian award, the Bharat Ratna, after her death in 1997.” Tara said, “That was a big honour.” Grandmother looked at her with an understanding smile, “Yes, indeed. Though she left Congress and joined the Communist Party of India for a few years, she rejoined the Congress Party in 1964. She died in 1996. Though she was a woman, she achieved a lot in her lifetime. Remember, she was the first elected Mayor of Delhi.” Tara suddenly looked excited, “Grandma, the other day we went to watch a movie, and somewhere on the way, we crossed Aruna Asaf Ali Marg. Now I know after whom it has been named.” Grandmother smiled, “Yes. I used to read about her and took an active part in the freedom struggle.” Tara said, “Grandma, I am so proud of you. One day I will also do great things for my country. I will make you proud.”

Fun with Grammar

Pronouns

Read the following sentences.

1. Tara held grandmother's hand.
2. She looked at her and smiled.

The coloured words in sentence 1 are nouns (Tara, grandmother). The coloured words in sentence 2 are used in place of the nouns. She is used in place of Tara. Her is used in the place of grandmother. So, she and her are pronouns. A pronoun is a word used in the place of a noun.

Personal Pronouns

Pronouns that are used in place of names of persons, things, animals and places are called personal pronouns.

Examples: 1. Rita went to the market with Madan. She helped him to buy a gift for Sadiq.

2. Sarika has a pet dog. It likes to eat bones.

She, him, and it are pronouns in the above examples.

We use he, she, him, her, etc., for a person. We use 'it' for a thing, an animal or a place.

Personal pronouns can be in the first person, second person or third person.

A pronoun that refers to the person speaking is said to be in the first person, e.g., 'I', 'me', 'we' and 'us'.

A pronoun that refers to the person 'spoken to' is said to be in the second person, e.g., 'you' and 'yours'.

A pronoun that refers to the person 'spoken about' is said to be in the third person, e.g., 'he', 'she', 'they' and 'it'.

Examples: 1. I will go to the market today. (First person personal pronoun)

2. You are a good speaker. (Second person personal pronoun)

3. They have gone out. (Third person personal pronoun)

Personal pronouns may be singular or plural.

Examples: 1. I am with Toshi in school. (Singular personal pronoun)

2. We are going out in the evening. (Plural personal pronoun)

A Personal pronoun may be used as the subject or object of a sentence.

Examples: 1. She is absent today. ('She' is the subject)

2. Rani gave me a gift. ('me' is the object)

Personal pronouns like I, we, you, he, she, it and they are used as subjects in sentences.

Personal pronouns like me, us, you, him, her, and them are used as objects in sentences.

A. Fill in the blanks with appropriate personal pronouns from the brackets.

1. Mahatma Gandhi was a great leader. _____ led India to freedom. (His, He)

2. Tara's grandmother took part in India's freedom struggle. _____ was young in those days. (She, Her)

3. Tara looked at grandmother and asked _____ a few questions. (she, her)

4. Aruna Ganguly married Asaf Ali. _____ was a Congress leader. (Him, He)

5. The British ruled India for many years. _____ often arrested many freedom fighters. (We, They, Them)

6. _____ should read about our freedom fighters. (Us, We, Them)

Possessive Pronouns

Read the following sentences.

1. The blue pen is hers.
2. The big book is mine.
3. The new bottle is yours.

The coloured pronouns show possession. The sentences mean 1) The pen belongs to her. 2) The book belongs to me. 3) The bottle belongs to you. So, they are called possessive pronouns. We use mine, yours, ours, theirs, his, hers and its as possessive pronouns.

B. Fill in the blanks with appropriate possessive pronouns from the box.

ours theirs theirs hers theirs

The children made sketches of some freedom fighters. They later kept the pencils and sheets of paper on the shelf. The things were _____ (1). The girls kept the water bottles near the teacher's table. Rubina kept her water bottle near the shelf. The blue bottle was _____ (2). The boys kept the bags near the windows. The bags were _____ (3). The students asked the teacher if they could put the sketches on the display board in the classroom. The teacher asked them if the cartoons on the board were _____ (4). They said, "Yes, these are also _____ (5). But we will take them out and put the new sketches on the board." The teacher nodded and said, "Yes, go ahead!"

Demonstrative Pronouns

We use demonstrative pronouns to point at some person or thing. Pronouns like this, that, these and those are used as demonstrative pronouns.

C. Complete the following passage with appropriate demonstrative pronouns given in the box.

that this those these this

The teacher entered the class and said, “_____ (1) are blank sheets for you. I will distribute them now. _____ (2) are the pictures of freedom fighters on the big chart near the blackboard. Try to draw the pictures now to the best of your ability. Let me tell you about the great leaders. _____ (3) is Sarojini Naidu, and _____ (4) is Sucheta Kripalani in that top corner of the chart. _____ (5) one is Aung Suu Kyi’s picture. Now, you may draw any one of them.”

Interrogative Pronouns

Read the following sentences carefully.

1. Who is the monitor of class IV A?
2. What is the name of the new boy in the class?
3. Which is Rita’s seat?

All the coloured pronouns are interrogative pronouns as they are used to ask something. They take nouns as their answers.

Whose and whom are also interrogative pronouns.

D. Tick (✓) the correct interrogative pronouns.

1. (Whom/Who) is waiting at the door?
2. (What/Which) is the picture of Aruna Asaf Ali?
3. (Which/What) was the name given to Aruna Asaf Ali in 1942?

LET'S READ

Read the following passage:

Aung San Suu Kyi is a citizen of Myanmar, one of India's neighbouring countries. She has been fighting for democracy in her country and protection of human rights of the people of her country. Most of the people support her and want an elected government in their country. It is ruled by a military government. Aung San Suu Kyi was put under house-arrest, many times by the military government of Myanmar. She has lived under house-arrest for 15 years. Aung San Suu Kyi was born on 19th June, 1945 in Yangon in Myanmar. Her father's name was Aung San. He played an important role in getting independence of Myanmar from the British rule in 1947. He was killed in the same year. Suu Kyi's mother was Khin Kyi. Khin Kyi was sent to India and later to Nepal as the Ambassador of Myanmar. Aung San Suu Kyi came with her mother and studied at Jesus and Mary's school in New Delhi. She later joined Lady Shriram College, New Delhi. She also studied at Oxford University in London. She lived in New York, London and Shimla for some years. She married Mickael Aris in 1971. She returned to Myanmar in 1988 to take care of his sick mother. She spoke against the Military ruler General, Newin and his party. She was shocked at the ill treatment of the people of her country by the rulers. She was put under the house-arrest many times. She received The NOBEL PEACE PRIZE in 1991. She was awarded Jawaharlal Nehru Award for International Understanding in 1992. She was finally released from house-arrest on 13 Nov, 2010. She continues her struggle for democracy and human rights.

Mother : O.K. No problem then.

RHYME TIME

Read aloud the following poem and then recite it in a group in the class.

I love my country for all its rich beauty,
The amazing colours of its diversity,
It is a gem that is priceless,
Where all live together, with more and even less.

The smiles of children full of cheer,
Women folk who hold their families dear,
Men who toil and turn the wheels of life,
My country basks in glory, both in celebration and strife.

A. Based on your understanding of the above poem, answer the following questions orally.

1. Find out two words that sound the same (rhyme) in the first two lines of the poem.
