Read and Enjoy

Arjun picked up his bag and ran down the winding road on his way to school. He heard the school bell ring and said to himself, "There goes the school bell! It is welcoming me!" As he ran in, the giggles and chatter of other children greeted him. He entered the classroom and sat on a seat near the window, his favourite corner. He took out his book and the class teacher entered. "Good morning, ma'am," greeted the students. She smiled and looked around, "Good morning, dear children. Today, we will learn about a very famous person who was also the President of our country. Look at this picture and let me see how many of you can guess his name." All the students shouted, 'APJ Abdul Kalam.'" "Yes," she said.

Arjun, like others, opened his book and waited. He had started coming to school after a gap of one year. After his

The villagers had gathered around it and were discussing in excited voices. They said that a big industrialist was setting up a school for the children of ten surrounding villages. All the children would be provided education, books and uniforms free of cost. It was truly a blessing for many. Within months, the school was functional and Arjun was very happy to resume his studies. His mother got a helper's job in the same school.

“Arjun, can you read the lesson for us?” said the teacher. He confidently replied, “Yes, ma'am.” He read aloud, “Avul Pakir Jainulabdeen Abdul Kalam, popularly known as Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam, is an Indian scientist who was also the eleventh President of India. He was born on 15th October 1931 at Rameshwaram in Tamil Nadu in South India. His father, Jainulabdeen, was a boat owner and his mother, Ashiamma, was a housewife. He came from a poor family and started to work at a very early age to earn money for his family members. He loved his family. He scored average marks in school but was very hard working and intelligent. He spent hours studying, especially mathematics. Before school, Kalam distributed newspapers to earn money.

"He studied at Rameshwaram Elementary School. Once Abdul Kalam completed school, he went to Saint Joseph's College, Tiruchirapalli, affiliated to the University of Madras. He graduated in Physics in 1954 and moved to Madras in 1955 to study Aerospace engineering. Once the Dean was not happy with his work and wanted him to complete his project in two days time. Abdul Kalam worked very hard and completed his project on time, to the Dean's surprise.

After graduating from the Madras Institute of Technology in 1960, Kalam worked as an aerospace engineer at Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) and later with the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO). He was the project director of India's first indigenous Satellite Launch Vehicle (SLV-III) which launched satellite called Rohini in July 1980. He is called 'the Missile Man of India'. He also played an important role in India's Pokhran-II nuclear test in 1998.

Abdul Kalam was elected the President of India in 2002. He was a visiting professor at Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad and Indian Institute of Management, Indore. He was also the Chancellor of the Indian Institute of Space Science and Technology, Thiruvananthapuram. He was also involved in various other educational institutes. He had written many famous books like India 2020: A Vision for the New Millennium, Ignited Minds, Wings of Fire and Mission India 2020. Abdul Kalam loves the youth and children. He always felt happy to meet them. He died at the age of 83, on 27 July, 2015, while addressing the students of IIM Shillong, Meghalaya. The teacher said, "Good reading, Arjun. I am so proud of you. Let us all clap for him." The children clapped loudly but Arjun was lost in thoughts. On his way back from school he was quiet. At night he told his mother, "Mama I want to become a scientist like Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam." She smiled and hugged him, "What does that mean? But I am sure you will do well." Arjun felt happy.

Present Perfect Tense

The present perfect tense is used to refer to an action that started in the past but is completed in the present.

Examples : 1. The artist has painted the picture.

2. The children have kept their notebooks.

The verbs in colour are in the present perfect tense. Sometimes the present perfect tense connects past with the present through the result of an action that took place in the past.

❖ We may also use the present perfect tense to show that something has just happened.

Examples : 1. Ramani has done her homework.

2. The teacher has entered the class.

❖ When we use verbs in the present perfect tense, we write: has/have + past participle form of the verb.

Example : The students have taken out their notebooks.

A. Read the following sentences and circle the verbs in the present perfect tense.

1. Arjun has reached his school.
2. Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam has inspired many Indians to work in the field of science and technology.
